Invitation to virtual Ham Radio World

Separate But Together: Virtual Gathering at Ham Radio World

Friedrichshafen – A full program over three days at Ham Radio World: Instead of physically meeting in Friedrichshafen, participants will gather digitally from 3 p.m. on Friday, June 25th, to Sunday, June 27th, 2021. The official opening will take place on Friday at 6:30 p.m.

In this virtual 2D world, which can be explored with a web browser, the Friedrichshafen trade fair organizers are offering fascinating lectures and discussions in cooperation with DARC, Germany's largest amateur radio club. Numerous exhibiting companies are inviting you to come network, exchange views, and get informed at the virtual exhibition site.

You can already get a preview of this year's Ham Radio World by visiting this link: pre.ham.darc.de. All you need for this virtual experience is an up-to-date browser on a desktop or laptop, as well as a webcam and microphone.

You can enter Ham Radio World here. You don't need accreditation, and participation is free of charge.

Further information is available at www.hamradio-friedrichshafen.de and <https://www.darc.de>.
